

a 2007 0295

The invention relates to the field of waste processing, particularly to roofing waste bitumen melting and can be used for obtaining bitumen from waste.

The bitumen melting plant consists of a melting chamber, a system for introduction therein of hot gases, a furnace for incineration of the mixture of substances, a volatile matters removal system, joining the melting chamber and the furnace, as well as a gas cleaning device.

Claims: 1

Fig.: 1