

a 2008 0038

The invention relates to the wind-power engineering and can be used in the wind-driven power plants.
The windmill turbine blade with vertical axis of rotation contains a bent sector (1) of sheet material and a straight sector with at least three flap windows (2) with horizontal axis (3) and with a preset weight per unit of area, placed in a vertical row.

Claims: 1

Fig.: 2

