

s 2018 0043

The invention relates to agriculture, in particular to vegetable growing, namely to a process for cultivating potatoes. The process, according to the invention, comprises soaking of potato tubers in a 0.01% aqueous solution of total glycoside extract from Veronica officinalis L. plants for 15 minutes, drying and planting thereof, and spraying of potato plants three times during the vegetation period with the same solution.

Claims: 1