

94-0118

The subject matter of the method is the following: the trees are cultivated once by a growth regulator (the latter are - 0,005-0,5% solution of ethyl-ether)  $\beta$ -naph thoxyacetic acid with the whole outlay 800-1000 l/hect.

This method of the apple-tree growing does well to the bud set and fruit set, helps to increase the containing of chlorophyll, helps to decrease the harvest loss from fruit shedding, from some physiological and fungous diseases, improves the fruit quality and long-keeping.