

94-0177

The invention relates to the chemical and pharmaceutical industry and refers to the method of dust preparation of medical substances in the amorphous form. Dust is heated up to temperature of melting, obtaining melt is cooled in liquid nitrogen then the solid mass is crushed up to dusty stage.