

95-0387

The invention relates to the traumatology and oncology and it contributes to lengthen of the short stump.

The proposed amputation method provides hermetic closing of modullary channel, prevents the appearance of purulent affections, the prominence articulation surface of autotransplant provides the lengthening of stump.

The method permits to use the autotransplant from distal sections of amputated extremity without tumor implant danger.

Claims: 1