

96-0116

The invention relates to the process for food additions production - food colours, used in food industry. Ripe fruits Phytolacca Species are used as vegetable raw material. The technical result of the invention consists in the production of a concentrated, resistant red colour both in acidic and neutral mediums.