

97-0268

The invention relates to the bedding and can be used in medical institutions and housekeeping.

A muzical telephonic pillow comprises a feather sack and a pillow-case. On the inner surface of the feather sack there are placed sound elements which are connected to the sound sources by means of conductors. The conductors are drawn out through an opening in one of the corners thereof and are provided with collapsible contact.