

98-0031

The invention relates to the production of decorative coverings and can be used in the finishing works.

In the invention is claimed a process for preparation of compositions for decorative covering of walls including grinding of the filler components, mixing thereof with a dry binder, further grinding, loosening, fluffing of the mixture components into the installation and mixing thereof with water before utilization. There are also claimed new compositions obtained by utilization of the said process for restoration of deteriorated coverings.