

98-0063

The invention relates to the sportive games, particularly, to the chess and draughts.

Playing chess (draughts) at this table is characterized in, that there take part not one but two or more players, simultaneously from each side.

The table for playing chess (draughts) contains a fixed part and a rotating one, a shield preventing the contact between the players of the same side, and some chess-boards, one of which is a main and the other complementary ones.