

99-0282

The invention relates to medicine and is provided for treatment of patients with rheumatoid affections.

The preparation for treatment of rheumatoid affections comprises aggregated human G immunoglobulin in the form of a 10% aqueous solution.

The result of the invention consists in the inhibition of the rheumatoid factor synthesis.