

The invention relates to the process for obtaining of drimenol, an important intermediate in the synthesis of biologically active substances and compounds with odorant and aromatizing properties.

The process consists in treating the drimane-8 α , 11-diol acetate with 30% sulphuric acid solution in ethyl alcohol at the room temperature.