

a 2001 0117

The invention refers to medicine, namely, to therapy and gastroenterology.

Summary of the invention consists in that there are determined the patient's age, heredity, blood group, body mass deficit, pain syndrom intensity, it is carried out an atropinic test and it is endoscopic determined localization, dimension, time of cicatrisation of the ulcerous defect, as well as the gastritis and/or bulbitis form. The obtained data receive the corresponding values which are summed up, thereafter according to the obtained values sum the variant of the duodenal ulcerous disease evolution is prognosticated.