

The invention refers to medicine, in particular to the pediatric gastroenterology.

Summary of the method consists in that for the pancreas function diagnosis in the biological liquids the level of trypsin and inhibitors thereof: (alpha 1 – antitrypsin, alpha 2 – macroglobulin) is determined in the saliva of the examined patients.

Claims: 1