

a 2002 0221

The invention refers to the food industry, namely to the production of canned chick-pea in tomato sauce.
The process for producing canned chick pea in tomato sauce includes cleaning of the chick-pea, soaking thereof in water, steam blanching, cooling in water, packing and filling with tomato sauce, sealing and sterilization of the obtained product. The tomato sauce, which the chick-pea is filled with, contains tomato paste, table salt, sugar, Jamaica pepper, leaves of sweet basil, thyme, laurel and celery stems.

Claims: 1