

a 2003 0061

The invention refers to the fruit growing, in particular to a process for cultivation of fruit crops.

The process for cultivation of fruit crops includes treatment of the fruit trees after flowering with aqueous solution of 3,5-dioxo-4-propionylcyclohexanecarboxylate of calcium of 0,0125...0,0250% by weight. The solution consumption norm constitutes 800...1000 L/ha.

The result of the invention consists in increasing the content of a, b chlorophylls and carotinoids in the leaves and in raising the productivity.

Claims: 1