

a 2004 0097

The invention relates to the semiconductor technology, in particular to processes for obtaining porous surface of the semiconductor.

Summary of the invention consists in that onto the semiconductor surface it is deposited a mask, selectively covering it, and it is carried out the electrochemical pickling. Novelty of the invention consists in that the mask is made of photoresist.

Claims: 1

Fig.: 1