

a 2004 0150

The invention refers to medicine, namely to traumatology, and is meant for treatment of fractures, pseudoarthrosis, posttraumatic osteomyelitis and degenerative-dystrophic diseases of the osteoarticular system.

Summary of the invention consists in that the buostimulating remedy comprises in an efficient quantity primary tissue culture, obtained from the locomotor system of the pig embryo at the age of 35...39 days with addition of embryo blood cells in a quantity of 5,5...9,5% of its weight. The efficient quantity of primary cells may constitute 50 mln.

Claims: 3