

a 2005 0108

The invention relates to the coordinative compounds, in particular to the Ni(II) complexes with polydentate ligands, soluble in organic solvents, which may be used as colorant for thermoplastic polymers.

The compounds, according to the invention, refer to the triazamacrocyclic complexes of Ni(II).

The compounds claimed as colorant possess high photostability, thermostability and pronounced intensity.

Claims: 2

Fig.: 1