

a 2007 0231

The invention refers to medicine, in particular to the gynecological oncology.

Summary of the method of differentiated treatment of endometrial carcinoma consists in that it is established the stage of disease, the degree of differentiation, the level of myometrium invasion, it is determined the level of tryptophan hydroxylase-1. Where the level of tryptophan hydroxylase-1 is above 13,8 conditional units, and to the patients there is established the stage of disease IA, IB, the degree of differentiation 1, 2 and 3, the level of myometrium invasion under 50% or the stage IC, the degree of differentiation 1, 2 and the level of myometrium invasion above 50%, it is carried out the total hysterectomy with bilateral oophorosalingectomy. Where the level of tryptophan hydroxylase-1 varies from 3,6 up to 13,8 conditional units, after hysterectomy, it is additionally prescribed the radiotherapy.

Claims: 1