

a 2007 0301

The invention refers to medicine, namely to the clinical pharmacology and may be used for treatment of nasal inflammatory diseases and for preparation of patients for diagnostic investigations of nasal cavity.

Summary of the invention consists in that the remedy comprises diethyl phosphate-S-ethyl isothiuronium, menthol oil, eucalyptic oil, pine oil, polyethylene glycol 400, nipagin, nipazol, buffer solution of phosphate with pH 4 and distilled water in the following component ratio: diethyl phosphate-S-ethyl isothiuronium 10 g, menthol oil 0,4 g, eucalyptic oil 1 ml, pine oil 1 ml, polyethylene glycol 400 50 ml, nipagin 0,2 g, nipazol 0,4 g, buffer solution of phosphate 50 ml and distilled water up to 1000 ml.

Claims: 1