

a 2018 0001

The invention relates to the field of medicine and chemistry, namely to drugs with antibacterial properties that can be used in the medical field.

According to the invention polymeric antibacterial materials from isofural grafted with α -polyglycans (starch, dextran) are proposed, wherein the content of isofural is 10...50% by weight, for internal and external use.

Claims: 1