

a 2018 0009

The invention relates to medicine and chemistry, in particular to the development of drugs with antibacterial properties against Proteus vulgaris.

Summary of the invention consists in that the polymeric material with antimicrobial activity against Proteus vulgaris comprises furacilin grafted to dextran macromolecules in a ratio of 50/50 wt.%.

Claims: 1