

The invention relates of the field of physics, in particular to the electronic radiation recording devices.

Summary of the invention consists in that in the capacity of sensors of the electronic radiation dose is used the polyethylen-terephthalate film.