

a 2005 0300

The invention refers to medicine, in particular to mammology and may be used for prophylaxis of dyshormonal hyperplasiae to patients with associated gynecologic and nongynecologic diseases.

Summary of the invention consists in that it is administered a preparation containing motherwort tincture (1:5), valerian tincture (1:5), 30% oleic tocopherol solution, alcoholic linseed extract, alcoholic extract of nut kernel and internal septa and 70% ethyl alcohol in the following component ratio, mass %:

motherwort tincture (1:5)	15,0...18,0
valerian tincture (1:5)	12,0...15,0
30% oleic tocopherol solution	0,1...0,3 alcoholic linseed extract	25,0...28,0 alcoholic extract of nut kernel and internal septa	20,0...24,0 70% ethyl alcohol	the rest, which is administered for 10...15 drops of preparation 3 times a day before meals, during 3 weeks.

Claims: 3