

s 2009 0100

The invention relates to medicine, particularly neurosurgery and can be used for prevention of ischemic complications in the case of brachiocephalic trunk vessel neurosurgical interventions.

According to the invention, the preoperative method for prophylaxis of cerebral ischemia consists in that it is compressed the common carotid artery by pressing it to the cervical vertebral bodies, during 60 min, 3 times for the space of 24 hours.

Claims: 1