

s 2010 0138

The invention relates to medicine, in particular to gastroenterology and can be used for the treatment of gastroduodenal ulcers.

Summary consists in the use of water-soluble oenotannin, obtained by oxidation of oenotannin with hydrogen peroxide, for the treatment of gastric and duodenal ulcer.

The result of the invention is to obtain a more effective drug for the treatment of gastroduodenal ulcers with the use of a substance of natural origin with high biological activity.

Claims: 1