

s 2017 0080

The invention relates to agriculture, in particular to vegetable growing, namely to a process for growing cucumbers. The process, according to the invention, provides for the extra-root treatment of plants during vegetative growth with 0.005% aqueous solution of culture liquid obtained upon deep cultivation of Penicillium funiculosum CNMN FD 11 strain and subsequent separation of the biomass by filtration, at the same time the treatment is carried out in 2 stages: in the phase of 3- 4 leaves and after 14 days with a consumption of 150 ml/plant for each treatment.

Claims: 1