

The invention relates to the organic compounds of the terpenic series, in particular to homodrimanes possessing antimycotic activity.

Summary of the invention consists in that 12-hydroperoxy-8a,12-epoxy-11-bishomodrimane may be used in treating mycotic infections.

The result of the invention consists in increasing the antimycotic activity.

Claims: 1